Godzilla, Elvis, and a typist? Hear them all together as the Seattle Wind Symphony begins its 2018-2019 season with a fun concert of standard works for the wind band that are truly weird, wild and wacky. The band plays works ranging in style from Dixieland to Gregorian chant by Eric Whitacre, Charles Ives, Leroy Anderson, and Timothy Broege. The concert also features the world premiere of Mozaic from Symphony No. 2 by Seattle composer, Sean Osborn.
